Additional Information:

The DMin program is a distance education program. However, some on-campus learning will be required. For example, there is a mandatory one-week admissions process for all first year students, which will take place some time in spring 2011. More information regarding this event will be provided for successful applicants early in next year.

As you fill out this application form, please review the materials attached very carefully. Do not staple your application form. If you have any questions, please contact Alison Hari-Singh, the Assistant to the DMin Program at 416-978-6754 or dmin.office@utoronto.ca for assistance. In addition, it is always recommended that those who are considering applying to the DMin program request an informal meeting with the DMin Director, Rev. Dr. Andrew Irvine. In order to set up an appointment, please contact Alison Hari-Singh either by phone or email (listed above).

Enclose a non-refundable application fee of $100 with your application and all required materials. An international money order or a Canadian or US personal cheque can pay this fee.

Application Deadline: November 15, 2011.
